August Suelzt, Pioneer Gem Farmer Succumbs

August Suelzt, pioneer Gem farmer died suddenly at his home late Tuesday afternoon from a heart attack. While not in robust health, he had not complained of feeling ill, having just completed some small chores about the farm when he was stricken.

A complete obituary of the highly esteemed Gem farmer will be published next week.

Funeral plans were not complete as we go to press, due the time required to receive word from widely scattered members of the family, but the rites were tentatively set for next Saturday afternoon.
